

Published Poetry by Jameson Currier:

“Frenchtown,” Chelsea Station (Issue 3), August 2012

“Chinatown” (Chelsea Station (Issue 3) August 2012.

“The Quiet on Floyd Street,” Spoonfed (Issue No. 12, December 1999). Reprinted on the Web site www.spoonfedamerika.com (December 2001).

“On the Fifth Floor” and “Hell’s Kitchen,” in the anthology Hell’s Kitchen: Slices of Life, edited by Mary Clark (Wordsurfer/The Public Press, 1999)

“Paul,” Vice, edited by Bill Zeoli (August, 1998).

“Rabun Gap,” Exit 13, edited by Tom Plante (Issue #8, Fall 1997).

“Snow, Unexpected, in Central Park,” Pink Cadillac, edited by Jason Mitchell (Autumn 1997).

“Butch” and “Peter,” in the anthology Between the Cracks, edited by Gavin Geoffrey Dillard (Daedalus, 1997).

“Two Blocks from Penn Station,” Clinton Chronicle (September/October 1996).

“Mykonos,” Clinton Chronicle (August/September 1995).

“On the Fifth Floor,” Clinton Chronicle (June/July 1995).

“Hell’s Kitchen,” The Clinton Chronicle (May 1995).

“David’s Creek” and “Stephen’s Pond,” Backspace (Spring 1995).

“Chelsea,” Harvard Gay and Lesbian Review (Winter 1995). Also published in Mediphors, edited by Eugene D. Radice (Spring-Summer 1996).

“At the Gates of the Circus,” David’s Place Journal (Fall 1994).

“The Haight” and “Underground,” Backspace (Fall 1994).

“Tokyo,” The James White Review (Summer, 1994).

“Evolution,” Synaesthetic (Spring 1994).

“Bloomsbury Remembered,” Art & Understanding (January/February 1993).